This is the place for a summary and an introduction.

See Figure 1 for an example Figure with caption.

Regarding references: The bibtex file (applications.bib) contains references in an ad-hoc format. You can add references and adapt as needed. For example, this is a reference for work in preparation [1]. You can highlight your name with bold font to indicate first author publications [2]. This template was used for an application as a postdoctoral researcher in astronomy and astrophysics. You can find a list of journal macros in the preamble. Comment, adapt, and delete as needed.
